The club is compiling an e-mail address list for the use of club members. If you want your address included or wish to have a copy of the list, send an e-mail to Craig Gittings.

Notice

Members

The Newsletter will be coming out on the 15th of each month. Send your articles or information to the editor by the 12th of each month.

BUDDING FLY FISHING WRITERS

Here is your chance to gain some experience writing about your fabulous fly fishing trips to places near and far. The club newsletter is seriously lacking in members written and photographic accounts of our fishouts. Of course you may not think a trip to Putah Creek is worthy of such notoriety, but remember, many members have never been there and would welcome a description of how your fishout went And as for a trip to Alaska or Baja, a story of your adventure would be most appreciated. Send articles to the editor

NOTE FROM TREASURER, BILL PEAKES – Mission Peak Fly Angler's patches and pins are available from Bill at a nominal price. New members should have received either a pin or a patch when they joined; if not, call Bill Peakes.

The President's Message

March 2010

Yikes!!! Saturday March 20th is the first day of Spring. Already?? Yep. We all know what that signals. Trout fishing is just around the corner. Hooray!!

The following is another piece of wisdom from Calvin.

Stranded Yuba Shad
By Calvin Chin

Every year the Yuba River gets very low during late July and August. The shad are reluctant to move beyond the deeper holes on the river. They will hole up along the way to the spawning grounds for fear of being left high and dry.

By the time the late movers reach this area around Hallwood Avenue, they have moved into the deepest holes there. So, you have to cross the road barrier to the main channel for the deep holes.

You can see a dead tree on top of the opposite high ground. The deepest hole is just below this tree. Wade out to just above the hole and let out line. Hold it steady and perhaps by the count of 50, you may be rewarded with a strike, if the shad are there.

Thanks you, Calvin.

Anybody else that has some ideas, innovations or just thoughts to make our days on the water a little bit better, let me know. Also, if you are still in possession of a certificate from the installation dinner to purchase a product, you need to contact Stephen at the March club meeting on the 24th. Otherwise, please bring the papers and maybe someone else would like to use them. Of course, bring checkbooks.

Mission Peak Fly Anglers Board Meeting – March 3, 2010

President Wayne Culp brought the meeting to order at 7:04 pm. Present were Secretary Dean Lewis, Treasurer Bill Peakes, Board Members Frank Rodriguez, Stephen Culp and Marilu Sawyer as well as Past President Craig Gittings

Old Business:

- Treasures Report: Bill reported on the income from the dinner. We took in $6,271 and had expenses of $4,591 for a net of $1,715. The club has a healthy bank balance.
- Kistler Fishout: After checking the bylaws, we were apparently not within our bylaws when members voted at the last regular meeting to reduce the charges from $25 to $10 per person. A notice should have been sent to all members before the vote. In order to make it official, Dean moved and Marilu seconded that the fee per member be dropped to $10. Motion passed.
- Annual Donations: After discussions on whom and how much we should donate to organizations that receive our donations, the following organizations were selected: FFF, Trout Unlimited, Cal Trout, Alameda Creek Alliance, Nature Conservancy, and CSPA. Dean moved and Frank second that we donate $150 to each of the named organizations. Motion passed. FFF receives an additional amount of $2.00 for each non-member in the club.
- Boy Scouts: The Boy Scouts are holding a Past-Future event on April 17, 18th and 19th at the same time as the Jamboree. We are working with the 7th district program Ms. Arch Dougan is a contact if anyone is interested in working that Saturday with this huge Jamboree (5-10,000 scouts).
- More Raffle Discussion: We continued our discussion on how to speed up the raffle process at our annual dinner. The thought of more bucket raffles, with tickets pulled and taped to the bucket so that members have to check the bucket seems to be a front runner at this time. We tabled further discussion until later in the year. We also discussed other ways of utilizing the donations that have to be pre-paid to be used.

New Business:

- Speakers: Regular or Fly Tying: Marilu moved and Frank seconded that if we take the speaker to dinner, the person taking them to dinner (normally the committee chair) and the speaker will have their meal covered by the club. It was felt that it was unfair to only pay for the speaker and not the chairperson. Motion passed. Craig will e-mail location of the dinner to members – RSVP required.
- April Board Meeting: Due to Easter Week, the normal meeting location is not available. The April meeting will be held at Dean Lewis' house.
- Silliman Center: Bill moved and Stephen seconded that we pay the Silliman Center through March even though we still do not have a contract. Motion passed. The new person, Amy, seems to be overwhelmed with her new duties and hasn't sent us a contract yet.
- Dinner Prizes: Dean Moved and Marilu seconded that we reimburse Stephen for the raffle prizes he purchased for the Installation Dinner. The Board had previously authorized him to acquire these prizes. Motion passed.
- Web Site: Stephen moved and Dean seconded that we pay our annual web hosting site fee. Motion passed.
- July Casting Meeting: Craig is working on getting an expert instructor for the July meeting.
- Meeting Time Change: In order to utilize all the time we are paying for at the Silliman Center, it was suggested that we start our meetings at 6:30. Stay tuned for more on this change.
- CAST: Marilu brought information on the next "CAST for Kids Fishing Day" at the Los Vaqueros Reservoir. This year it will be on May 8. This is for special needs children and volunteers are needed. Contact Marilu for more information.
- Club Insurance: We are in receipt of what appears to be a bill for our insurance that expires in April. Dean moved and Frank seconded that we pay this bill. Motion passed. Bill said he would contact our agent to see if this was the bill or just a pre-statement to be followed by an actual bill. In any event, we need to pay it.

It was moved and seconded that the meeting adjourn. Meeting adjourned at 8:27pm.

Respectively submitted:

Salmon season to undergo scrutiny

Eureka Times-Standard-3/1/10

John Driscoll

There is hope for a decent salmon season after several years of crushing closures driven by troubling returns of spawning chinook salmon to the Sacramento and Klamath rivers.

That hope is tempered, in part, because federal fisheries managers substantially overestimated the number of fish that returned to the vital Sacramento River in 2009. After three years of falling far short of the number of spawning salmon believed necessary to sustain the Sacramento stocks -- in two years even without fishing -- officials may take a more precautionary approach in allowing angling.

Even with that tighter management, it appears that there will be fish to harvest in 2010.

"There are fish, on paper at least, that could support some fisheries," said Chuck Tracy with the Pacific Fishery Management Council.

The length, timing and geography of the seasons will also have to be determined based on whether commercial fishermen opt to participate in the fishery or stay out yet another year because there aren't enough fish to make it worth their while.

That would make 2010 the fourth out of five years in which commercial fishing has cratered.

The PFMC has been managing chinook salmon stocks in the Sacramento River so that 122,000 adults return to spawn. The complicated model used to generate estimates for abundance of salmon in the ocean rests heavily on the number of jacks, or two-year-old salmon, that return early and act as an indicator of the following year's abundance.

In 2009, the PFMC estimated that just over 122,000 salmon would return to the Sacramento, based on about 4,000 jacks returning the year before. That allowed a tiny sport fishery off Eureka and Crescent City in the fall, but closed the rest of the coast to commercial and sport fishing. But even without impacts from fishing, only 39,500 chinook actually returned to the Sacramento in fall of 2009.

The low returns came during a three-year drought, and biologists and fishermen point at increased agricultural pumping from the Sacramento River Delta killing young salmon and leading to the downturn. Poor ocean conditions, namely a lack of food, may also factor in.

Fisheries managers say that more than 9,200 jacks swam up the Sacramento in 2009, which produces an estimate of 245,000 salmon in the ocean when run through the model. Based on the "floor" of 122,000 spawners, that would mean some 123,000 fish are available to catch this year.

But last year's experience with overestimating the number of returning adults is prompting regulators to err on the side of precaution. The National Marine Fisheries Service -- which must approve seasons and quotas -- is recommending managing for a higher number of returning adults, perhaps as many as 180,000. That would leave 65,000 salmon to catch.

"It's appropriate to proceed with precaution for setting any fishing levels," said NMFS fishery biologist Peter Dygart. For comparison, 770,000 salmon returned to the Sacramento in 2002, and 523,000 returned in 2003.

Klamath River chinook numbers, which have for years suppressed fishing and resulted in large-scale closures in 2006, were better predicted for 2009. The PFMC's report says that if 2009 regulations -- which offered only the token fall fishery -- were repeated for 2010, there would be enough fish left to spawn in the Klamath to meet management objectives.

Sport fishermen are hoping for a better season than last year's. Humboldt Area Saltwater Anglers representative Ben Doane said that the anglers intend to submit three options to the PFMC for consideration. The first would be a season roughly from mid-June to Sept. 1, which Doane expected would be turned down. The second would be July 4 to Aug. 15, roughly. The third would be mid-July to mid-August. All options would be for two fish a day, seven days a week.

"We're cautiously optimistic for a season," Doane said. "What that may be remains to be seen."

The PFMC is scheduled to meet March 5 to March 11 in Sacramento to begin discussions on the salmon season. # http://www.times-standard.com/localnews/ci\_14490579

March Program

Guide and Outfitter Bob Alexander of Rainbow Bend Fly Fishing is from the land of big trout where fish are measured in feet and not inches in the high desert rivers of Eastern Oregon. His program will be on Fishing the Lower Deschutes River. Home waters are between Warm Springs and Madras. Bob comes with very high credentials, that being Marty Van Slyke's brother in law. This should be a highly informative evening for all.

PROJECT HEALING WATERS ..... Attention Mission Peak Members ..... PROJECT HEALING WATERS

Who would like to join us and be part of helping our veterans through this worthwhile program?

What you might ask is involved? It can be as little as a group of us going out to Livermore and and/or Palo Alto once a month to teach fly casting and fly tying to our wounded veterans. It could go as far as accompanying a group of veterans on a fishing trip to be their 'gillie' and personal assistant on that trip. I have made the initial contact at Livermore VA Nursing unit and their seems to be an interest, but I cannot do it alone.

I'd bet we can get funding help from the FFF, NCCFFF, the Elks Lodge, Kiwanis, VFW, and other service organizations, all we need to do is give a little of our own time to those who have given so much for us. If interested please contact me, Thanks Ken Brunskill
